

Season 2

Ep # 9 – Jason Caslor

Intro

Welcome, welcome, welcome to the Band Room Podcast! My name is Dylan Maddix and I am happy to be back with you, now in the month of November! Last episode I said it's getting colder; the leaves are changing color but now I have to say it's getting colder and I already had to shovel snow! Don't know what it's like where you are...

Before we get to the interview please do me a huge favor and head over to itunes or wherever you listen to fine podcasts like this one and give The Band Room Podcast a rating, or even a review! This really helps grow our bandie audience and get the word out to others.

We hear at the band room podcast have some exciting news coming up! But...I can't share that with you this episode, hopefully the next one. In the meantime, I want to hear from you! As I create more episodes, I want to know who you want to hear from or maybe topics you want to know more about. It's super easy to get in touch, you could leave me a voicemail at anchor.fm/the-band-room, or email me at thebandroompodcast@gmail.com. Want to hear from you! But until then, how about an interview?

Jason's Intro

I first met today's guest as an undergraduate student at Mount Allison University (as you'll hear in the interview) and have since then have become colleagues and friends, who try to get together anytime we're in the same city. I'm very excited to share this interview with Dr. Jason Caslor, the new Director of Wind Ensembles at Arizona State University.

Jason is one of those educators that as soon as you talk with him he puts you at ease. I've had the great pleasure of watching him work and to see him translate the (what at times) can be complicated musical ideas into understandable and attainable concepts is an amazing thing, a master communicator and conductor. He was in town to conduct the Ontario Provincial Honor Band and both of us were at the Ontario Music Educator Conference to give talks, so we had a chance to sit down and chat. I hope you enjoy this interview with Dr. Jason Caslor.

Outro

The one and only, Dr. Jason Caslor! I hope you enjoyed our discussion and hearing about Jason's story. It just goes to show you, you never know where you're going to end up and how you're going to get there. Thanks again to Jason for spending the time with us in The Band Room! And thanks to all you that could stop by.

If you want to learn more, I have attached links to the show notes (found on our website, www.dylanrookmaddix/thebandroom.com) where you can find out more about Jason, things we discussed and the music used for today's episode.

If you liked what you heard make sure to subscribe to The Band Room and give us a rating and review and tell all your friends how much you enjoyed it. If you really love the show, consider becoming a patron with Patreon, helping to offset podcast hosting costs, and investments into new equipment, so we can continue to bring you great content and great people! Follow us on our social media to keep up with what's on the go and if you have any thoughts on today's episode or have ideas for future episodes, leave me a comment on our website or even cooler, leave me a voice mail on our new hosting website (anchor.fm/the-band-room/message). Please tune in next month when I interview, Dr. Mark Hopkins from Acadia University. Thanks again and see you next time in, The Band Room.

Episode Links

Jason Caslor

<https://herbergerinstitute.asu.edu/profile/jason-caslor>

Arizona State University

<https://music.asu.edu/degree-programs>

Ontario Provincial Honor Band

<https://onband.ca/OPHB/>

OMEA

<https://www.omea.on.ca>

Anchor Voice Mail

<https://anchor.fm/the-band-room/message>

